

Step Ten: Beginning of the Maintenance Steps

Understanding the Disease of Alcoholism Takes Time

By Rick R.

After being in the program for a while, it occurred to me that initially, there was no way I could have performed all the measures suggested in the steps on my first go-around. Coming from an alcoholic's approach to the issues we plan to address, we eventually come to understand that we can only give it our best effort to start the process. Understanding the disease of alcoholism takes time. We can however establish a framework without concluding that we have completed the steps. As we continue to grow in the program more will be revealed about the steps taken and that is where step 10 becomes the opportunity to revisit past steps and fill in the empty spaces as we evolve. That does not mean that we cannot address those issues when we become aware of them. If we stay sober long enough to get to this level of understanding we will continue to repair our broken relations with others and clear up legal, marital and financial problems that can be a distraction when it comes to looking at the deeper rooted emotional, mental and spiritual issues. We cannot ignore the need for up-keep and maintenance in the program no more than we can ignore the Up-keep and maintenance when we purchase a new car. Brake shoes wear thin, oil gets dirty, coolant evaporates etc.... The same effect takes place in the process of recovery. If we become complacent at any level of this process, as it often happens, we may relapse or, miss out on the promises set forth in step nine.

Step Ten, "Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong promptly admitted it". (BB Pg. 59) I believe that most of the members of AA that actually go through the steps, as suggested in the Big Book, have been doing this to some degree since they became aware of it in the 4th and 5th steps, and the reason why they reintroduced us to this topic in the tenth step was to make it clear that we will continue to do this for the rest of our lives. We are never finished when it comes to taking the steps. There is a line that we cross if we are committed to the goal of becoming the best we can be in life and that is where we stop asking "Why we must do all the things that the program suggests" to a point where we start asking the question "Why wouldn't we do these things that result in freedom of the mind. The biggest misconception that we have is the idea that, somehow, we are responsible for becoming an alcoholic and this is simply not the case. Alcoholism is a disease that we did not have the capacity to decide to become afflicted with when we were born. You might say that alcoholism is a byproduct of guilt, shame, and low self-esteem based on habits and deeds of the past. When we took our first drink it did something for us than it did not do for the normal person. It masks all our fears and insecurities temporarily but did not erase those embarrassing behaviors from our minds and our conscience. We behaved poorly as we evolved through our adolescence and young adulthood due to the fears and inhibitions associated with alcoholism. Who could fault the person who discovers they have a disease, takes it upon themselves to treat that disease, restores and accounts for all the faulty behaviors that stem from that disease, makes restitution and becomes a model citizen? This is the natural development that evolves as the result of taking the steps and continue the up-keep and maintenance process and I Thank God that the program of Alcoholics Anonymous has taken one hell of a load off my mind and I am at peace mentally when my head hits the pillow at night.
